CARLEE McCLENDON, HISTORY LOVER

In offering this Edgefield County Census of 1800 to the public, I can claim only remote control. Carlee McClendon has done all the work, including a double check for accuracy. As part of the series I am supervising, it becomes third of the county schedules to be published. Laurens and Chesterfield, in format like this, have appeared earlier this year. The feature story of Mr. McClendon is used with Mrs. Lawrence's permission. The Census may be procured from Mr. McClendon or from me.

LOVE FOR HISTORY

Edgefield Youth, 19, Is Top Genealogist

By KATHRYN LAWRENCE
Special to The State

EDGEFIELD — Carlee McClendon is a young man with a love for history — not big names and big events, but ordinary people and everyday happenings that have gone into the making of his hometown of Edgefield.

At 19, he is already recognized as a first-rate genealogist, and his hobby has led him into the publishing business.

Last summer he published the 1790 census for Edgefield County, using data from the earliest U.S. census, but alphabetizing it and putting it into easy reference form.

This summer he plans to publish the 1800 census, which will be another valuable aid to genealogists, librarians, and historians. can be traced to Ezekial McClendon who owned "Piney Woods" (now Pine House) near Edgefield. Ezekial just missed going down in fame as host to General George Washington.

"You'd be surprised how helpful this can be to someone tracking down family lines," he explained. "The cards tell where the bride is from, and sometimes where the young couple moved — both valuable clues."

JOURNALISM STUDENT

Carlee, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph McClendon, is also the archivist for the Edgefield County Historical Society — perhaps the youngest person in the state to hold such an office.

All this work has been done in addition to his studies at the University of South Carolina, where he is a junior, majoring in journalism. Last year he took a course in interior decoration, and became so interested that he is now torn between two careers.

"I think I'll try to combine them — perhaps working on an interior decoration magazine," he said.

This interest in decorating has led him to collect several antiques, purchased with his own savings. In an Abbeville shop he found an old music box, which he prizes highly, and a metal statuette of a knight in armor. "Might be DeSoto — who knows," he grinned.

In the McClendon dining room is a crystal chandelier, of immense size and weight, which he found in a Columbia antique shop. He has also acquired an "ancestor" — a fine painting of an unknown Colonial gentleman.

ANCESTORS AND EPITAPHS

His interest in history was touched off by two prominent members of the Edgefield County

Historical Society, Mrs. Mamie Tillman and Miss Hortense Woodson. They urged him to trace his own family lines, and also interested him in copying the epitaphs in local cemeteries.

He now has a complete record of gravestone inscriptions — including those in small family plots — in the Edgefield area.

He has discovered that his mother's family goes back to William Byrd of Westover-on-the-James, Virginia. A descendant of Byrd's was the builder of Oakley Park, the Red Shirt shrine in Edgefield. His father's family

At his home he has a neat card index of nearly all marriages which have occurred in Edgefield County from 1736 on, painstakingly culled from early copies of the Edgefield Advertiser, and from numerous county records.
